

Tips To Be A Great Kisser

Sometimes you feel that you are head over heels in love for her. However, sometimes you doubt your feeling. So, how do you kiss someone whom you like, but you are not sure about? The kiss in this situation should be a combination of short but sweet. This is a flirtatious way of showing your affection to her, in a hugging sort of way. Try to hold her hand or put your arms around her when you kiss her. Though you don't French Kiss, make your intentions obvious by opening your mouth slightly during the brief period of intimacy. The kiss should last a good number of 7-8 seconds though anybody would be a fool to count the seconds while kissing. However the point being forth across is that the kissing should not be longer than she expects.

You could have a crush on someone. She is giving you the subtle hints and you can bet on your eyeballs that she feels the same way for you. The kiss of this kind has a lot of romantic suspense element in it. There is a strong attraction towards a person you don't know that well. When you get to kiss her, do not go to the area of French Kissing, but make sure that your kisses are little wet and slurpy. You should begin your kisses with gentle closed mouth pecks and move on to some sweet inviting kisses, sizzling but not yet steamy. Don't involve your tongue. Keep your mouth open during the kiss. You could preferably shower a row of kisses on her. You don't have to just kiss on the lips. You could kiss on her cheeks, and forehead too as an expression of love. But when you are kissing on the lips, make sure that you have your arms around her and your kisses are more on the softer side. Try not to kiss too long, because very soon hormones will go on an over-drive and you will find yourself making love to her. Many a budding relationship have lost their charm or died quickly because of making out too early in the relationship before the individuals really to get to know each other perfectly. Your crush should not feel used, the kiss should be a sweet thing for her to cherish. So end the kiss at the right time before things get hot to handle. You should hang around with your crush after the kiss or jive with her if you have just kissed her before the party.

You like someone as a friend. She is so cute and bubbly, and oh such a caring friend. You just can't wait kissing her but then you don't want to send wrong signals in the group. The choice of kiss you shower on her depends on your chemistry with her. You can either give an innocent peck on her cheek or kiss her with your lips. Use close mouthed kisses. Keep your kisses fun-filled and flirtatious. To banish those stupid speculations, see that you tell her that it is such a fun to be her friend after the kiss is over. A hug after the kiss would underline your friendliness and attachment to her.

Consider that you have just started dating someone. This is not your first date and you have kissed her before. She is no more a crush, the relationship is developing. Make sure that you hold her real close, almost cuddling her in your arms when you kiss her. Begin kissing the same as you used to do in the past. Stroke her hair or hold her hips. You can French kiss her, for the first time now. If this is something that she may not find comfortable, even at this stage then you could for the Canadian version of the French kiss, also called, as Quebec kiss. This type of kiss is a shorter, dryer version of the French kiss with sparse amount of tongue kissing. End the kiss with a gentle kiss on the nose or forehead. After the kiss is over, talk to her. Hold her hands and talk about how marvelous the kiss was, and how she made you feel. Talk a little more and then lean toward and give another quick kiss to her lips.

Suppose you are going steady with someone. You are already in a relationship. You have kissed her many a times, have even made out with her. Here is the best part to graduate to variety in kissing and erotica. Explore with your kisses. Experiment the depths of sensuality is the way I would put it. Kissing under mistletoe will always have its sweet charm. Most of the couples forget the element of kissing and smooching and they would bypass that part to indulge in sexual activity. Kissing still reigns as the best part in foreplay, for most women. It is mentally stimulating and soul-enriching for them. Put a lot of passion and fire in your kisses. Be a man and shower her body with wet delicious kisses. When you French kiss, make sure that you tease her with your tongue. Bring a lot of variety in your kisses. Experiment with food. You could nibble on a piece of chocolate and share with your lover. You can take slow sip from the champagne flute and then kiss her. She will gently suck the champagne from your mouth. She should curl her into a tube once the kiss has begun, so that you can suck the entire end of her tongue to get the champagne. This is just one of the sexciting tips in kissing. There are a lot of tips for kissing given in books and online for experimental kisses. Copy them or invent your own!
