

Quick Review of Adjustable Beds

The goal of this article is to provide a brief overview of some of the more popular adjustable beds on the market today. Many of these beds can be found both online and at local retailers and include prominent manufacturers such as: Sleep Comfort, Sealy, Craftmatic, Tempur-Pedic, and Spring Air.

Craftmatic Adjustable Beds

This company has been marketing adjustable beds for more than 30 years and sold more than 800,000 of these units around the world. Craftmatic offers options such as heat and massage, which for some provides important health benefits as well as comfort. Some of the problems that these types of beds are best suited for include: low back pain, hernias, blood circulation issues, water retention and swelling of the legs, arthritis, joint pain, muscle pain, frequent heartburn, stress related aches, and neuralgia.

Sleep Comfort

This company offers two models of bed: standard and wall hugger. The beds are offered in twin, full, queen, dual queen, king, and dual king sizes. Mattresses can be purchased for these beds in Dual firm coil, pillowtop coil, latex foam, or visco memory foam. The company is based in San Diego, California, and supplies bedding all over the United States.

Sealy

Sealy is one of the most recognized and trusted names in the bedding industry. They also happen to be one of, if not the biggest bedding manufacturer in North America. This company produces a wide range of quality mattress and foundation products from conventional bedding. Some of these include: Sealy Posturpedic, Sealy Posturpedic Luxury Collection, Sealy Backsaver, and the posture premier products as well as the Reflexion Latex Foam Collection. Sealy products can be found in more than 7,000 retail locations across the U.S.

Tempur-Pedic

This is the company that is most often associated with the visco foam mattresses (visco would be the space aged material discussed in the commercials). These mattresses are made of 100% visco-elastic memory foam. This foam has a unique ability of responding not only to the shape of the body lying upon it, but the temperature also. This combination makes for a heavenly night of sleep. This company provides the Tempur-Pedic mattresses, beds, pillows, and mattress pad toppers to more than 60 countries around the world. These products are sold in retail locations as well as online.

Spring Air

The most advanced product at the moment offered by Spring Air is the Ovation, which is an adjustable base having Comfort Reach action. While the Ovation looks like a standard bed, it has the Comfort Reach Smooth Glide Action. The head and foot elevation that this bed offers is instrumental in relieving symptoms of poor blood circulation, nighttime heartburn, and backpressure. Additionally, Ovation offers a wireless remote control with programmable memory. This device is glow in the dark so that you might find it in the middle of the night and has a memory massage program that many find to be a very enjoyable feature.

Given the choices available to you, finding your perfect adjustable bed should be easier.

Source: <http://www.articlecircle.com>

About the Author

Find out more about adjustable beds at <http://www.getabettersleep.com>