

Grooming Bathroom Accessories

Are you married and often find it a hassle for you and your mate to share the same mirror? Do you find your self in the bathroom at the same time, getting ready for work as your mate? If so, then you may want to consider grooming mirrors to accommodate you and your mate. How do I find grooming mirrors? You can find grooming mirrors at any department store, general stores, etc. Ultimately you can go online and find a wide array of grooming mirrors. How do I choose grooming mirrors? It depends on your style. IF you prefer swivel lit tilted mirrors for personal use, then you might enjoy Nova series. The mirrors mount on the wall, which provides you space and accessibility. You can use the mirrors while standing. The mirrors will clear clutter from your countertops. The mirrors are great as well, since you can purchase non-fog mirrors, which means if your mate steps out of the shower you can continue grooming without worrying about steam. The mirrors are attractive. When you put on make up or shave, in common mirrors you may miss areas. In public, you are unaware of the faults. With Nova lit mirrors and non-fog units, you can relax, since you can put on your makeup or shave without worrying about missing spots. The elegant mirrors include the single/dual arm series, which provide you versatile features, such as the slide modes. You can adjust the mirror to any height you choose. Nova has included a magnifier into its non-fog mirrors, which are also free of image distortion. How do I choose size? The mirrors are around 10 inches in diameter. Still, the mirrors offer you shadow-free, incandescent, and well-rounded lighting to groom. The mirrors are stylish. The rims and arms are made of brass. Trimming is also made of brass. The trim, rims, arms, etc is complimented as well by polished chrome, or you can choose brush nickel finishing.

How do I choose colors?

It depends on your style. The mirror mentioned in this article includes the almond and white houses. Again, you can choose brass finish, chrome, nickel, etc.

How does the mirror light up?

The mirror runs from a standard 110 to 120-voltage battery. How do I find mirrors that do not use batteries? The mirrors operate from batteries, yet you can remove the power supply extension and install the unit by hard-wiring it to your electric outlet. How much do the mirrors cost?

It depends where you shop. Online you can find the mirrors from very cheap and up. You may shop other areas online and find bargains. Look for coupons, since it will save you money.

What if I prefer another style? You can choose the Pedestal Lit Vanity Mirrors, or other mirrors of choice. You have a wide array of choices. How much do the Vanity mirrors cost? It depends where you shop, however quality will play a big part. You have a choice of solid brass, brush nickel with white house, clear coat/white, and the polished chromes. Can I hardwire the Vanity mirrors?

You will need to shop around for mirrors that allow you to hardwire them. Grooming mirrors, such as the Vanities made by Nova does not always sell hardwired mirrors. How do the mirrors look?

It depends on your choice, however you can choose the light pedals, which are made of brass. The coating is protected. You also have the option of choosing clear coat finish, aluminum house with pure brass and so forth. The gold trimming is my favorite, but it is up to you.
